RE: ISTFELLOW Program

Dear Prof. Kaledin,

The Institute of Science and Technology (IST) Austria is a new institution located on the outskirts of Vienna dedicated to cutting-edge basic research in the natural sciences and related disciplines. IST Austria has set up a program for exceptional postdoctoral researchers, which is partially funded by the European Union, ISTFELLOW.

The program is open to qualified applicants from all over the world who are interested in spending the postdoctoral stage of their scientific research career at IST Austria. The program is intended for postdocs interested in the areas that are represented by the faculty at IST Austria (www.ist.ac.at/research). As the research portfolio of the Institute continues to branch out into other areas in the coming years, including physics, chemistry, and mathematics, so will the ISTFELLOW program.

More information about the ISTFELLOW program can be found here: <http://ist.ac.at/istfellow>

I would be very grateful if you could bring this opportunity to the attention of any suitable postdocs or PhD students in the final stage of their studies, and also display the attached poster in your department.

Thank you for your time and your help!

Sincerely yours,

Johannes Irschik
